

April 20th, 2020

Shotover Lodge Community

---

Good morning,

I hope this finds you all well and having managed to distinguish the weekend from the rest of the week! We appreciate the conditions associated with Alert Level 4 are restrictive and limit your ability to spend time as you would normally choose to do so. However, we are under exceptional circumstances and the mandate to remain within our isolated bubbles is simply part of being responsible citizen. For the most part QRC and Shotover Lodge management are very happy with the way in which the QRC community has adopted these measures.

As we draw towards the end of the initial four week lock down period, it is highly likely that any move to extract the population from Alert Level 4 will not greatly impact day to day activity. This simply means we will need to normalise the actions taken to date for a longer period of time. To effectively do this it is important to be mindful of the people with whom you live in close contact.

Please remember that the rules and obligations of residing at Shotover Lodge are still relevant during this time. This applies to noise, observing quiet hours and being mindful of the impact your personal conduct has on others. Should the management be required to repetitively request groups or individuals to refrain from certain actions they will be forced to issue fines by way of managing anti-social behaviour. Our preference is of course that all residents are conscious of the choices they make at this time and respectful of the lodge community.

If you have any queries or questions, please refer to the lodge handbook in the first instance and then feel free to be in contact if you require further assistance.

Kind regards

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Lynsey Bullock', with a decorative flourish at the end.

Lynsey Bullock
Student Services Manager